

JFF Privacy Agreement

By Using Our Website, You Consent to This Privacy Policy

This privacy policy sets forth the standards we will follow with regard to information collected at jff.org and other related sites controlled by JFF.

When users use this website, they are using a service provided by JFF and therefore agree to be bound by this privacy policy. This policy addresses only activities connected with JFF's servers. Other sites, including those that we link to and third-party sites, may have their own policies, which JFF does not control and are not addressed or controlled by this privacy policy.

Why We Collect This Information

We use your information to send information on JFF services, products, marketing and event materials, and newsletters to you, and to respond to your inquiries. JFF collects voluntary information from site users. JFF reserves the right to share this information with other similar organizations.

How We Protect Your Privacy and Your Data

We do not sell, trade, or otherwise transfer to outside parties your personally identifiable information. The Privacy Act of 1974, as amended (5 U.S.C. 552a), requires us to notify you that the Privacy Act protects the information you are providing to us. In rare instances, we may have to disclose registration information to the U.S. Department of Justice or a court in connection with federal litigation.

We use return email addresses to answer the email we receive. Such addresses are not used for any other purpose and are not shared with outside parties.

To prevent unauthorized access, maintain data accuracy, and ensure the correct use of information, we have put in place appropriate physical, electronic, and managerial procedures to safeguard and secure the information we collect online.

Notification of Use of Information Changes

This privacy statement is current as of June 2019. We may change this privacy statement from time to time, so please check this page periodically. JFF reserves the right to modify this privacy statement at any time. Your continued use of our website following the posting of changes to this privacy policy will mean you accept those changes.

Applicable Law

The website is published in the United States and is subject to laws of the United States. If you are located in a country outside the United States and voluntarily submit personal information to us, you thereby consent to the general use of such information as provided in this privacy policy and to the transfer of that information to, and/or storage of that information in, the United States.

How To Contact Us
